

HEIDE

New work at the Heide Museum of Modern Art, by O'Connor and Houle, extends the Reeds' vision of landscape, art and place.

HEIDE MUSEUM OF MODERN ART / PHOTOGRAPHY: THE JON REED

87% The building was designed by the Reeds, and the landscape was designed by the Reeds. The building is a long, dark, rectangular structure with a flat roof. The landscape is a vast, flat, light-colored field.

87% The building was designed by the Reeds, and the landscape was designed by the Reeds. The building is a long, dark, rectangular structure with a flat roof. The landscape is a vast, flat, light-colored field.

87% The building was designed by the Reeds, and the landscape was designed by the Reeds. The building is a long, dark, rectangular structure with a flat roof. The landscape is a vast, flat, light-colored field.

87% The building was designed by the Reeds, and the landscape was designed by the Reeds. The building is a long, dark, rectangular structure with a flat roof. The landscape is a vast, flat, light-colored field.

87% The building was designed by the Reeds, and the landscape was designed by the Reeds. The building is a long, dark, rectangular structure with a flat roof. The landscape is a vast, flat, light-colored field.

87% The building was designed by the Reeds, and the landscape was designed by the Reeds. The building is a long, dark, rectangular structure with a flat roof. The landscape is a vast, flat, light-colored field.

87% The building was designed by the Reeds, and the landscape was designed by the Reeds. The building is a long, dark, rectangular structure with a flat roof. The landscape is a vast, flat, light-colored field.

